

SIZA CONFERENCE 2026

Shaping the Future Of Compliance Together

19 August 2026 | Ashanti Estate, Paarl

SESSIONS

(Finer details of the conference programme are still being finalised and will be confirmed closer to the event)

The Reality of Compliance Today

This session will look at whether the current compliance model is sustainable, whilst also better understanding how businesses balance rising costs versus ESG-, traceability-, and market expectations.

From Policy to Practice

A session on why implementation remains the biggest challenge in ethical and environmental trade. We will discuss what is preventing consistent on-the-ground implementation and how we can move from “paper compliance” to meaningful impact so that it can benefit the business.

The Human Impact on Sustainability

Offering insights into whether compliance programmes are actually contributing to a more effective value chain. Putting a specific focus on grievance mechanisms, communication systems, and workplace cultures that employers and employees trust, understand, and feel safe using.

How do one support stronger collaboration across supply chains

Looking at a smarter, more effective compliance system and how it would look like in the future and whether technology, data integration, remediation-focused approaches, and stronger collaboration can reduce audit fatigue while improving transparency, sustainability, and inclusion.
